Exploring an Enriched Life Beyond Work

This is an interactive participatory teleclass where like minded individuals can investigate their future life’s options in a supportive and exploratory atmosphere

Course Details

- Schedule: Every Tuesday for six weeks beginning September 12, 2006
Location: Via Teleconference
Time: 8-9 pm Eastern
Cost: $249 for first participant, $150 for second person if couple taking course together

Why should you take this course?

Leaving a structured daily routine can be challenging for some, and rewarding for others. This class is for anyone who is transitioning from structure work to designing their own life's schedule. This six week program provides exercises, educational dialogue and opportunities to explore if life becomes more important than work. If you are presently working and open to investigating new options for your life, this class is for you.

What’s included?

Six one hour classes lead by qualified instructors
Extensive course material including a detailed Life Guide
Individual coaching

Course Leaders

Dick Haid, Ph.D, PCC (<http://www.adultmentor.com>) and Terry Schaefer, LCSW-C, PCC (<http://www.terryschaefer.com>) have been conducting tele-discussions on developing a rewarding life after a successful career since 1998. These tele-classes are full of creative ideas where people leave with new discoveries on what is abundant in their lives that one can tap into regularly.
